

Exit Form for J Scholars and Professors

If you were in J-1 status in the "Research Scholar" or "Professor" category on or after November 18th, 2006, you are subject to a 24-Month Bar on repeat participation in the J "Professor" or "Research Scholar" categories. This means you will not be able to come back to the US in the J-1 "Professor" or "Research Scholar" categories for a period of two years upon completion of your program. You are still eligible to return to the US on other visa types or in other J categories - i.e. Short Term Scholar, J-2 Dependent, or J Student.

However, you might wish to keep your current J-1 status active to enable you to resume your current program within the next 24 months for the remaining balance of your 5 year program. In order to maintain your current J-1 status and for you to be able to return, you will have to extend your J-1 program beyond your departure date.

Would you like to extend your program to allow your return within the next 24 months?

- Yes
- No, I am leaving LESS THAN 30 days before the End Date of my DS-2019
- No, I am leaving MORE THAN 30 days before the End Date of my DS-2019, and the date of my departure is: _____

If you answered "No", stop here. If you answered "Yes:"

When do you plan to return and resume your program? _____

What will your funding source be for the duration of the extension of your program (not to exceed a total of 5 years)?

_____
To extend your program, you must complete the scholar program extension application and meet with a J advisor to discuss your options.
